DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 5 recites the limitation "the device" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. It is unclear if the "feeding device" or the "picking device" is being referred to.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-7, 20-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wiegert (PCT WO 99/03323), in view of Thompson (2777267) and Pottinger et al (GB 2012154, cited by the applicant).

Wiegert discloses:

In re independent claims 1, 2, 20:

a feeding and picking device for feeding and picking a standing crop's individual plant stalks, the device comprising:

a rotating feeding element rotated about a vertical axis in a circle comprising a body with outwardly extending fingers (fig 4, ref 20);

a picking/gathering device (figs 4, 6, refs 10, 11) which separate useable parts from stalks;

an inlet is located in front of the vertical axis (see fig 4);

a snapping channel/gathering gap (31) wherein the feeding device covers the snapping channel (as shown on fig 4, the feeding device covers the channel);

Wiegert discloses the claimed invention above including the fact the feeding element can be substituted by any other known devices (Applicant can refer to a translated copy, see Appeal Brief, or to an equivalent US Patent 6412259, column 2, lines 32-33), however Wiegert does not show or list the claimed alternative feeding device which grasps plant stalks as claimed.

Both Pottinger and Thompson disclose known devices for conveying the stalk, for example Thompson shows that the feeding device with finger (fig 1-2, ref 31), wherein the fingers of the upper element (for example ref 37) are directed away from a direction of rotation (as shown on fig 1) and the lower feeding element is beneath the upper feeding element and rotate the same direction as the upper one (fig 2, 3); and similarly Pottinger shows on fig 2 and 4, the same arrangement wherein the upper feeding element (bent tines ref. 10 or feeding element(s) are shown, also see page 3, ln 114-115) are directed away from the direction of the feeding element; and the lower feeding element is beneath the upper feeding element and rotate the same direction as the upper one (fig 1).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the feeding device of Wiegert with the alternative feeding device taught by either Pottinger and/or Thompson, in order to improve the lifting actions and support on stalks which may have been leaned forwardly by the agricultural harvester.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 8-13, 15, 17-19 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 1/6/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

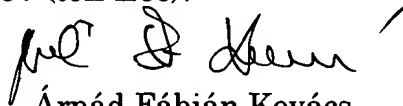

As shown above, the inlet located in front of the vertical axis of the feeding device, as now the claims are amended, also met by the combination of the references.
